

Australia Solo – Jennifer Bult

Hornets Rush

Australia Solo is the culmination of a year of work for Jennifer and is her first solo exhibition at the De Havilland Gallery.

The exhibition features paintings prints and sculpture that have been inspired from Jennifer's journeys and long stays at Lightening Ridge. The paintings & prints depict the muted bleached burnt oranges and red colours of the landscape and at first glance have an indigenous feel in the way they occupy themselves on the canvas. The sculptures in this exhibition create a tangible touch to this flourish of creativity as the artist has depicted existing forms of nature that are interconnecting with the landscape.

"I live and breathe the environment when I am there I just love the landscape every little tiny thing inspires me even the burrs daisys and the daisy pods as they all seem to have a purpose." I think the reason that my paintings have an indigenous feel to them is that my spirit becomes one with the land and I am at peace with the earth when I am there".

I encourage all who have been to Lightening Ridge that the visuals of this exhibition will rekindle you with the landscape and take you back there. And for those of us who have never been to Lightening Ridge you will want to visit.
